

SHOOTING STARS

Shooting Stars equips you with the skills needed to feel confident and effective in any presentation situation through intensive individual coaching over two days.

Lesley Dunbar, Senior Marketing Manager at Scottish Widows, attended Shooting Stars and said:

This was one of the best training sessions I have ever attended. Everything we learned could be put to practical use immediately, it gave us the opportunity to try things out in a safe environment and it was a lot of fun!

Would you like to transform your personal presenting skills by achieving greater control over body, voice and material? Would you like to affect internal change that becomes evident on the outside?

Guided by two experienced trainers, participants can achieve this by:

- Examining individual's current skills in depth
- Experimenting and honing public speaking and presenting techniques to suit each individual
- Gaining an understanding of presenting/public speaking objectives
- Working on pitch, range, pace and articulation
- Practising projection and focus of delivery
- Practising effective physical and vocal preparation

Shooting Stars training includes exercises in maintaining eye contact and structuring and delivering different types of presentations. This learning is invaluable to any presenter whether standing before an audience or in a meeting around a table.

Specific exercises are recorded and played back to help identify individuals' issues and practise improved techniques. Participants are usually asked to prepare an easy short presentation in advance of the course. The ratio of just three participants to one trainer ensures a great deal of personal attention and encourages participants to gain confidence and skills geared to each individual more rapidly.
